Appendix

1. 4-5 Month Plan

To set your youth ministry up for success, providing your Youth Minister with an opportunity to get to know your parish community before launching any programming is imperative. We envision this happening over a 4-5 month period. During this time the Youth Minister can assess and approach ministry volunteer possibilities, research and familiarize themselves with youth ministry resources, become familiar with the school culture, the local youth culture, attend training and provide training opportunities for volunteer leaders, plan short and long-term activities for tweens/teens and develop strategies for promotion and outreach. All of these are important steps in laying a foundation for a successful and sustainable youth ministry.

2. Youth Ministry is renowned for having a high burn-out rate, around 9-16 months. See below for some ranked burnout causes.

Rank Order of Burnout Causes
1. Felt isolated or lonely.
2. Pastor/supervisor hard to get along with.
3. Spiritual dryness, un nourished soul.
4. Strained family relations.
5. Too much criticism.
6. Financial pressures.
7. Loss of confidence.
8. Feelings of personal inadequacy.
9. Feelings of personal disorganization.
10. Grew weary of spending time with youth.

To set your Youth Minister up for success we recommend the following:

- a) Of the two days off per week, one day in the week that is generally known as untouchable;
- b) Time allotted for periodic networking and collaboration with nearby Youth Ministers, sometimes in conjunction with OCY;
- c) An annual retreat, paid for by the parish (OCY Youth Ministry retreat is one option);
- d) Ongoing training and professional development;
- e) A clear job description, articulating clear expectations and shared vision;
- f) Drawing up of a youth ministry budget, and identifying possible fundraising efforts.
